BROWNIES WON CHAMPIONSHIP

Norfolk Lost Yesterday in Game Filled With Safe Hits.

LEANARD NOT IN GOOD FORM

Home Boys Found Eleven of His Benders and Straightened Them-The Score.

Richmond made it two out of three with Notfolk by winning yesterday's game—score 10 to 6. It was a slugging match, intersected with bases on balls and cogly crivers. Leanard, Norfolk's fast twirler, was pounded for cleven times, and in addition to this he handed out nine free tickets to scats on the first sack.

Leake, the star curveologist of the Twin City League, was rapped for ten times, but several of those against him were bunts beat out by the batters. After the second inning Norfolk was fighting on the defensive. One man was hit, another given a complimentary, and then four of Richmond's players took the kinks out of Leanard's twisters. Five runs came across the rubber. Again in the sixth the home team piled up the scores, multing four tailies as a result of two buses on balls, two clean hits and an error.

The attendance at yesterday's game The attendance at yesterday's game was larger than on any previous day. Nor-olk took the first of the series and the took the first of the series and the wnies grabbed the second. The third to decide the superiority, and it came he men managed by Albert Anthony, grand stand was very well filled and bleachers had their usual crowd. Over the ten-cent side the coming generaconsregated and rooted for the home

Won Two Sacks.

Jack Anthony started things to moving in the second inning by slashing one out to deep center for two sacks. Eacho caught a single and Jack scored. Elimore popped one up that Churns got under, and Leake sent a whistler down to short. It was too hot to field properly, and Leake landed safely. Hogan couldn't get away from one of Leanard's benders, and was bifted. He walked down, and the bases were crowded. Rose looked over four of them, but none suited his taste. He went to first, and Eacho was forced to vacate the third sack.

Hulcher, who had been placed in on the batting order to take the place of McEvoy, who got miffed in the first linning and retired, stepped to the bat, after an unsuccessful attempt had been made to let McEvoy come back into the game. Hulcher was given the glad hand and in appreciation of the applause, he nailed one flat in the face. It whized through second and out to deep right. Three runs came across while Hulcher, the southpaw twirler, was reaching second. But this was all for the inning, but sufficient unto the inning were the runs thereof.

Randall, the sprinter, lined a nice one Won Two Sacks.

hut sufficient unto the inning were the runs thereof.

Randall, the sprinter, lined a nice one down to Eacho, who muffed it, in the fourth inning. White walked and Keane got a safe one. Owens sent a hot one down to Eacho, who transferred it to first. Owens was under the impression that he had sacrificed. The book is against him on the play. On Leake's error, Randall came home and White scored a minute later when Smith dumped one down to first. Churns ozoned, The sixth inning was another bad one for the visitors. Elmore didn't start it well, for he fanned, but Leake waited for four good ones. Hogan pasted a single and Rose again waited for his transportation. It came with the signature of Leanard on it. Hulcher ripped one down to short and it wasn't handled properly. Two runs came over in the bad play. Bowers went out to first, but one more to short and it was to induce a play. Bowers went out to first, but one more run was sailing over in the meanwhile. Albert Anthony tore off a single, and died at second when he tried to stretch it into two sacks. But another tally was

But One Double.

There was only one double during the game. It happened in the second lining when the Collegians were at bat. Keane when the Collegians were at bat. Keane got a ticket to first and walked and Owens went out to first. Keane stole second and landed on third by the out. Smith sent a speedy one to Leake, who transferred it to Anthony on first. Tae batter was out. Anthony's aim was true in returning the ball to the plate and Keane took the cemetery road at the suggestion of Power to the took of the cemetery road at and Keane took the cemetry foat the suggestion of Receiver Elmore. I was a neat and clean double play that was rewarded by the fans.

Two very peculiar plays occurred during the game. Keane had lam. on first by getting a single and Owens followed him. The batter sent one down towards second and Keane couldn't getout of the way. He was struck on the foot and called out. Owens was credited with a hit, but the rule book doesn't say what he got it for—hitting the ball or the runner.

Keans figured in the other play also and again he was the one to get swatted with the ball, but this time he got the credit for the hit. But Elmore, who threw the ball, was not given a hit. It looks like a poor rule that won't work both ways, yet the men of brains who compiled all of things that fell a player what is what, say that this is the correct way. Anyway Keane dropped a dinky little bunt down about four inches from the plate. He did some good sprinting right down the base line and Elmore couldn't see Anthony for the runner. Like a shot, however, the ball was sent into the direction of first base. It overtook the runner and biffed him in the back. He got hit and was so recorded.

The President would like to have at least three battleships added to the navy through appropriations made have at least three surpsimiles and the next winter. A large section, clearly a majority, of the House, it is said, is opposed to authorizing the construction of more than one of the sea fighters of the first class. It is said there has been no agreement reached as to the number of cruisers and torped boats that will be authorized, and it is presumed that the conflict between the House and the White House will be over this feature of the nival appropriation bill.

The Massachusetts, the Oregon, the Indiana, the Texas, the Iowa and other vessels of the new many have become obsolete, though it seems but a few years since they represented the most modern ideas in naval construction. It has been the contention of Mr. Rixy and those members who have supported him that it is wiser for the government to go slowly in the matter of constructing battleships, and build more torpedo boats. the nature of Mr. Solomon's testimony is expected to be, those who know will not state. Certain it is that he is one of the special witnesses which the jury will call after the poil of the voters is completed. The precincts called yesterday were Second and Third Clay, Fourth Jefferson and Second and First Marshall, but besides the voters from these precincts, probably two hundred from any old precinct were heard. For the accommodation of the waiting line in the corridor, at 1:30 P. Startling Rumors Printed. Startling Rumors Printed.

The rumors regarding alleged irregularities in the second preclint of Leo Ward found definite expression in print yesterday. An afternoon paper published a detailed statement alleging to be the result of the grand jury poll in that precinct and a comparison with the election returns, the result being that a striking discrepancy was shown to the advantage of Mr. Smith. It was alleged that of 191 voters polled out of the total of 243 voting, the jury had found 120 yeard of the yeard of the polishof a detailed statement alleging to be that of 191 volers polled out of the total men who voted for Mr. Epps, with 49 yet to lestify, and that Measrs. Smith and McCaw together, according to the jury poli, received but 74 of the 191 votes between them. The returns of the primairy, gave Mr. Smith 125 votes, Mr. Epps 38 and Mr. McCaw 25, a total of procisely 243, the number of votes cast. If this rumor has any foundation then ballots have been tampered with or other ballots substituted for, them. If Mr.

Smith received all of the 74 votes alleged to have been found for either Smith or McCaw, all of the unpolled 49 votes would not give him the total of 125 returned for him by the judges. If Mr.
Epps, as the alleged jury poil shows, received 10 votes out of 194, he must have received half or three-fifths of the remaining forty-mife votes. This would swell his real total to 145 to 150 votes in the precinct, instead of the 3 which the election judges credited him.

What foundation in fact there is for the alleged story, if there be any, cannot be elicited. Grand jurors have stated publicly that they have an to this time

Judge Witt yesterday called on Chief of Police Werner to give him sufficient men to handle the throng of voters waiting to be sworn and polled. A repetition of yesterday's crowding and inconvenience will be avoided.

It now seems certain that the grand jury will not be able to formulate and make its report to the court before next Wednesday at the earliest, and if the poll show any glaring discrepancies these will require the summoning of many witnesses and the consumption of considerable time. Altogether, it now looks like another week will be required to complete the inquisition, unless the poll tailies with the returned results in all the precincts.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

NORFOLK, VA., August 3.—To a mighty chorus of cheers from the throats of 15,000 racing enthurlasis, Margaret, a bay mare, owned by E. C. Hathaway, general manager of the Norfolk Rallway and Light Company, scored a triumph this afternoon by winning the 2:24 page in three straight heats from a field of twelve at the Fair Grounds. From the word "go" to the finish, there never was a moment when Margaret was in danger. F. Covington held the ribbons on the winner, and with consummate skill piloted the mare to the front lineh by inch, nursing every ounce of her strength till the crucial moment came. Heutschill and Sweeney's Baltimore horse, Bedworth H., was frequently on the mare's throat latch, but just as often she drew away. The winner of the interesting event was heavily backed allover town. The mare was a hot forcettle from the first. sentiment in the country concerning his wisdom of selecting the navy as the first subject of economical appropriations. There can be no doubt that the country at large wants a large navy and wants it to grow all the time. It is believed the Republicans will begin the next session of the Congress with the determination to make up the deficit by reducing appropriations. The talk of the enactment of a law taxing documents, telegrams and proprietary articles is not likely to amount to more than talk. A tax on coffee, such as has been proposed, is not likely to be inid. Neither is there likelihood of an increase of the tax on beer, which is another method proposed to overcome the treasury deficit. There may be some sort of the fiff revision, but it is pretty well assured there will be no reduction in tariff duties extensive enough to so increase imports as to make any very great increase in customs reveaues.

While the managers of the Republican party bave decided that a polley of retrenhment shall be carried out in making appropriations at the coming session it is doubtful if they will be able to execute it. It is next to impossible to reduce expenses of government without a revolution. The annual cost of this government is greater now than it was in the year it fought the war with Spain. It is next to impossible to come back to an economical basis even after a year or two of the extraordinary expenses of a war. It would be safe to wager that. It is believed the Republicans will be-Princine won the 2:30 trot in three straight heats. Twilight and Elector, owned by Heutschell and Sweeney and A. H. Tyson, of Baltimore, respectively, did not start.

Rara Avis, owned by J. F. Coleman, of Norfolk, won the 2:18 trot also in three straight heats. Sir Electroid, owned by J. G. Benton, of Washington, D. C., gave the gray golding the most trouble.
